<th>RIC Food for Thought Recipe Collection</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Campus Ministries, The Unity Center and the Women’s Center are collecting heirloom recipes for publication in a RIC Food For Thought cookbook to be made available during Diversity Week 2010 (contingent upon adequate content). Heirloom recipes are traditional recipes that withstand the test of time and are passed on through generations. They are often reflective of a family’s heritage and/or ancestry. If you are interested in submitting a recipe with (or without) a brief anecdote about its origin and importance in your family send it to Unitycenter@ric.edu. Submissions will be accepted throughout the summer sessions and should include all pertinent recipe information, your name and campus affiliation. Relevant background information about the dish (e.g. name of the dish, country of origin, family member credited with passing it down, associated occasions etc.) is also welcomed. Please call The Unity Center (456-8791) or Campus Ministries (456-8346) for additional information.</td>

Volunteer Opportunity with the Nazarian Center

Are you looking for a fun volunteer opportunity? Do you enjoy the theatre or just like to greet people? Become a volunteer usher at the Nazarian Center for the Performing Arts. Most events are 3 hour shifts on evenings and weekends. Minimal training required. See the show for free and help us welcome community members to our campus.

This is a great way to fulfill your community service hours and you can start this summer! There are a limited number of performances at the end of May, mid-June and several in July and August. Both daytime and evening opportunities are available.
For more information and schedule information, please contact Kathi Bacon at kbacon@ric.edu or 456-8194.
