This text was adapted from the original text

Sherlock Center on Disabilities
Rhode Island College
Paul was a big strong baby.
Paul could pick up trees.
One day, Paul found a blue ox and named it Babe.
Paul liked to run with the deer.
Paul enjoyed wrestling bears.
Paul and Babe moved West through the woods.
Paul and Babe grew up together.
Paul would cut the trees and Babe carried the logs away.
Paul saved his friends from the monsters.
On vacation, Paul dug out the Great Lakes for ships to travel to camp.
When Winter came, there was a big snowstorm.
The snow melted by Spring, and the people had a big party.
The party ended. Paul traveled West dragging his ax on the ground. It made a big hole called the Grand Canyon.
The people were hungry. Paul bought them corn.
Their trip ended at the Pacific Ocean.