Clouds, Clouds, Clouds, and Clouds
What are clouds?

Clouds are little drops of water up in the sky.

To you and me they look like cotton.

They are so small and light they float in the sky.
There are four types of clouds.

Cirrus

Stratus

Cumulus

Nimbus
Cirrus clouds are thin and wispy.

Cirrus - curl of hair.
Stratus clouds are thick like a blanket.

They cover the blue sky.

Stratus-layer
Cumulus clouds are little and puffy like cotton balls.

Cumulus- heap
Nimbus clouds are big, dark, and puffy.

Watch out, these clouds may cause precipitation.

Nimbus-rain
What is precipitation?

Precipitation is rain or snow.
it could be too foggy to see the clouds.
