This Adapted Literature resource is available through the Sherlock Center Resource Library.

The text and graphics are adapted from the original source. These resources are provided for teachers to help students with severe disabilities participate in the general curriculum. Please limit the use and distribution of these materials accordingly.
Once upon a time there was a little house.

The house lived in the country.

The house was well built.
The house liked the country.

The house watched the sunrise.

Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.
The house watched the sunset.

The house wondered about the city.
The house watched the seasons change.

The house watched Spring.
The house watched summer.
The house watched fall.
The house watched winter.
One day trucks came.
The trucks built a road.

Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.
Cars drove on the road.
The house watched the cars.
Soon big houses were built.
The land was crowded.
No one lived in the house.

Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.
The city was loud at night.

The house missed the country.
Everybody seemed busy.
A train track was built.
The track was above the house.
The train was loud.
A subway was built.

People were moving faster.

No one looked at the house.
Big buildings were built.
The house was sad.

The house was lonely.
A woman walked by the house.

She remembered the house.

Her great-great-grandfather built the house.

Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.
Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.

She put the house on wheels.
The house rode to the country.

The house found a place.
The house was very happy.

The house was fixed.
Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.
Adapted from the original text, The Little House, by Virginia Lee Burton.