Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
It is early morning.

Perry felt Sarah.

Perry raised his sleepy eyelids.

Perry waited for Sarah to wake up.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
Sarah woke up.

Perry was very happy.

Perry licked Sarah's chin.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
After breakfast they took a walk.

Sarah buckled his harness around Perry.

Now Perry was working.

Perry now had to listen to Sarah.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
They walked down the sidewalk.
At the corner Perry stopped. Perry waited for Sarah’s instructions. Perry made sure no cars were coming.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks
They walked to their favorite grocery store.

Perry was the only dog in most grocery stores.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks
Then they went to the Post Office.

Then Perry climbed up slowly.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
After the post office they went home.

Perry drank cold water from his bowl.

After Perry took a nap.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
After Perry's nap they went to the train station.
Perry carefully moved through the crowd.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
After the train stopped they went to a school.
Perry was happy when he saw the children’s faces.
Sarah sang a song about Perry to the children.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
The children asked Sarah many questions about Perry.

She told them that Perry was seven years old.

Also that he was trained at a guide dog school.
Sarah showed a photo album of Perry.

Sarah told the children it was okay to pet Perry now.

He was not working.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
Sarah told the children about an adventure.

Perry and Sarah walked all the way to New York.

Perry showed what a guide dog can do for a blind person.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
Perry and Sarah made it to New York.

Television cameras waited for them and took pictures of Perry.

They both won a medal.

Adapted from the original text, Looking Out for Sarah, by Glenna Lang, Cambridge Paperbacks.
After their school visit, Perry had a play session. Sarah removed his harness. They played with a tennis ball.
Sarah and Perry went home.

After dinner they both went to bed.

Perry put his nose on his paws.
The end