The students were not listening to Miss Nelson, the teacher. "Behave please," Miss Nelson says in a quiet voice. The students laughed. The students did not do work. Miss Nelson wants the students to listen.
Adapted from the original text, Miss Nelson is Missing by Harry Allard and James Marshall
Miss Nelson did not go to school the next day. The students are happy. The students say, "We want to be terrible." A loud voice says, "Not so fast!"
The students see a woman. She wears a black dress. The teacher is Miss Viola Swamp. Miss Swamp says, "I am the teacher now." The students listen to Miss Swamp.
Miss Swamp gives homework. Miss Swamp says, "No story,"

"no talking," and "sit down." The students are scared of Miss Swamp.
Adapted from the original text, Miss Nelson is Missing by Harry Allard and James Marshall.
Miss Nelson did not go to school. The students want Miss Nelson. Where did Miss Nelson go? The students try to find Miss Nelson. The students go to Miss Nelson's house. Miss Nelson is not home. The students see Miss Swamp walking up the street. The students run away.
The students are in school. The students are sad. The students think Miss Nelson will not return. The students hear footsteps. "Hello, students," someone says in a quiet voice.
The capital of England is London.
The capital of Sweden is Stockholm.
The capital of Japan is Tokyo.
The capital of Italy is Rome.
The capital of Greece is Athens.
The capital of China is Peking.
The capital of Denmark is Copenhagen.
The students see Miss Nelson! "Did you miss me?"

Miss Nelson asks. "We missed you!" the students say. Miss Nelson reads a story to the students. Miss Nelson sees the students are good listeners. The students are happy.
At home, Miss Nelson hangs her coat in the closet. A black dress is in the closet. Miss Nelson went to bed. Miss Nelson says, "I will never tell."