This Adapted Literature resource is available through the Sherlock Center Resource Library.

The text and graphics are adapted from the original source. These resources are provided for teachers to help students with severe disabilities participate in the general curriculum. Please limit the use and distribution of these materials accordingly.
One Day, I had an idea.

“Where did it come from? Why is it here?”

“What do you do with an idea?”
At first, I didn’t think much of it

It seemed kind of strange.

I didn’t know what to do with it, so I just walked away from it.
But it followed me.
I worried what others would think

I hid it away and didn’t talk about it

I acted like the idea was not there.

Adapted from the original text, What Do You Do With an Idea, by Kobi Yamada and Illustrated by Mae Besom. Published by Compendium.
There was something magical about my idea.

I felt better and happier when it was around.
My idea wanted food.

My idea wanted to play.

My idea wanted a lot of attention.

Adapted from the original text, What Do You Do With an Idea, by Kobi Yamada and Illustrated by Mae Besom. Published by Compendium.
My idea grew bigger.

We became friends.
I showed it to other people.

Many people thought my idea was silly.

They said it was a waste of time.
I believed them at first

I thought about giving up on my idea
I decided that it’s okay if my idea is different.

I decided to protect it.
My idea grew.

My love for it grew too.
I built my idea a new house.

It had an open roof.

My idea was safe to dream.
My idea made me feel like I can do anything.

We shared secrets.

It showed me how to see things differently.
It’s hard to think about life without my idea.
One day, my idea changed. It spread its wings and flew into the sky.
My idea was not just part of me anymore

My idea was now part of everything
Now I know what you do with an idea

You change the world