Have a job goal in mind?

Do you get Social Security Disability (SSDI) benefits?

Is your Supplemental Security Income (SSI) reduced, or are you ineligible for SSI because of income or resources?

Do you have expenses related to pursuing your job goal?

Come learn about Social Security's Plan For Achieving Self Support (PASS). PASS is a great way to help you fund expenses related to reaching your job goal. If you are eligible, a PASS can help set aside your own income or resources to pay for job goal related expenses, and replace that money with a full monthly SSI check to pay for your living expenses.

How does a PASS help someone work?

PASS can help you pay for anything that is necessary, reasonably priced, and is an additional expense because you are working towards a job goal.

It can be used for transportation (cars), child care, educational expenses, professional clothing, tools and just about everything you can think of that is necessary to reach your goal.

With SSI eligibility comes potential Medicaid, Food Stamps, Housing Assistance, and Fuel Assistance.

PASS works with other programs, so if you are seeing a vocational counselor, or using your Ticket to Work, you can still use PASS.
