

Brief description of the Street Team Initiative:

Street Team Volunteers will help spread the word of CES events around campus and the local community through posters, postcards, social networks and word of mouth. Hours are flexible to accommodate students' schedules and only require a couple hours a week depending on upcoming events. Ten percent commission on any tickets sold. Volunteering may lead to full- or part-time internships (for college credit or independent studies) in the areas of marketing, finance, ticket sales and/or event management. The office is located in North Providence, R.I. – a 7-minute drive from Brown's campus.

Description of Classic Entertainment & Sports:

Classic Entertainment & Sports (commonly known as CES Boxing) is one of the most respected promotional companies in the professional boxing world. Jimmy Burchfield, President and CEO, is seen as one of the most honest and hard-working promoters in the sport. Since founding CES nearly three decades ago, Burchfield has built local fighters into world champions and promoted shows across the globe from Atlantic City to Las Vegas to Germany. Now, with more than 50 fighters on the roster, CES is ready to break new barriers in 2009 and further cement its status as the hardest-working promotional company in the business. CES also specializes in the marketing and consulting of world-class professional boxing. Fights throughout the year in New England take place at venues such as Twin River Casino and Plymouth Memorial Hall. For more information go to www.CESBoxing.com.
