Connecting to the RIC-GUEST network in Windows Vista
By Andrew Larrivee

You can use the wireless connection on your laptop to connect to the RIC-GUEST network.

1. The wireless network icon is located at the bottom right corner of the screen in the taskbar. When the computer is not connected to a network, the icon has a red X. Double-click the icon.

2. Click “Connect to a network.”
A list of available networks will appear. Select “RIC-GUEST.”
3. Click “Connect.”

4. It will take a moment to connect to the network.
5. The network is now connected. Click “Close.”

6. The icon in the taskbar has changed to show a globe with the computer monitors. This means that you are successfully connected to the network and the internet.
