Connecting to the RIC-GUEST network in Windows XP
By Andrew Larrivee

You can use the wireless connection on your laptop to connect to the RIC-GUEST network.

1. The wireless network icon is located at the bottom right corner of the screen in the taskbar. When the computer is not connected to a network, the icon has a red X.

2. Double click the icon.

3. A list of available networks will appear. Select “RIC-GUEST.”

4. Click “Connect.”
5. It will take a moment to connect to the network.

6. The network is now connected. Close this dialog by clicking the red X at the top right of the window. This will not disconnect you from the network.
7. The icon in the taskbar has changed. It now shows green waves to indicated that you are connected and have a signal.
